Lawyers, including Salve, write to Chandrachud over group trying to "pressurise judiciary"

THREAT TO JUDICIARY: 600 LAWYERS WRITE TO CJI

RAISING ALARM TO DEFEND JUSTICE!

Moni Sharma
New Delhi

Over 600 lawyers, including senior advocate Harish Salve and Bar Council of India chairperson Manan Kumar Mishra, has written to the CJI, alleging that a "vested interest group" is trying to put pressure on the judiciary and defame courts "on the basis of frivolous logic and stale political agendas".

"Their pressure tactics are most obvious in political cases, particularly those involving political figures accused of corruption. These tactics are damaging to our courts and threaten our democratic fabric," their letter, dated March 26, addressed to CJI D Y Chandrachud said.

The lawyers claimed that this 'vested interest group' was employing pressure tactics to influence judicial outcomes. "These actions pose a significant threat to the democratic fabric and the trust placed in judicial processes," the lawyers said.

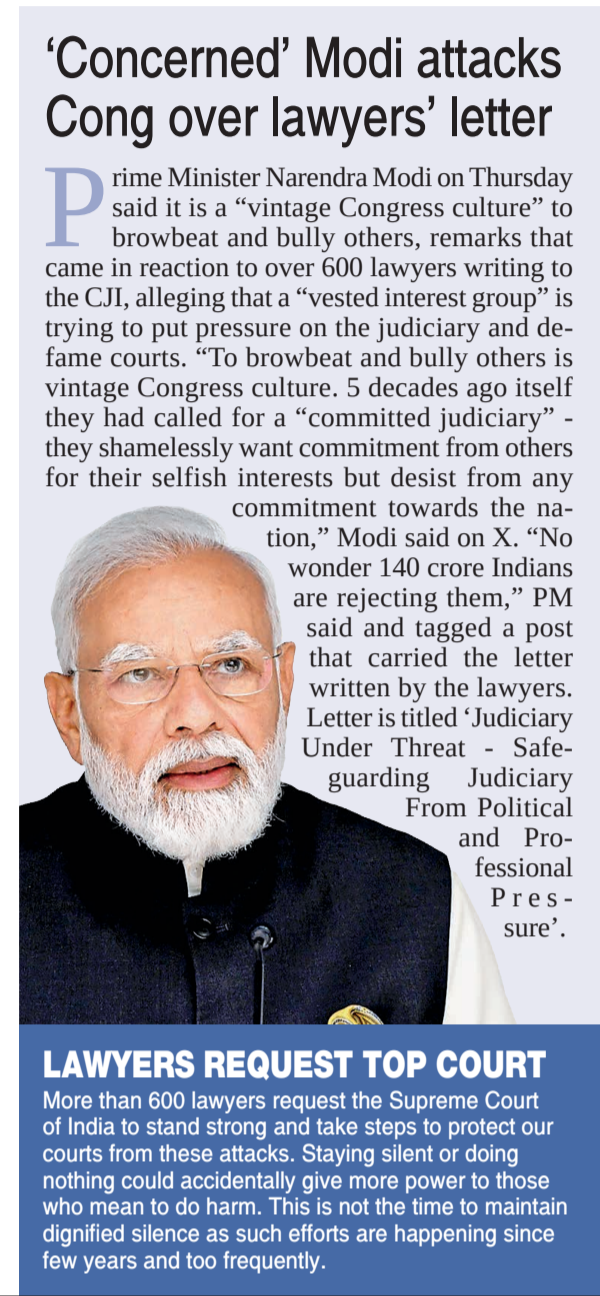

WHAT'S HAPPENING... PROBLEMS FACED...

POLITICAL FLIP-FLOPPING
It is strange to see politicians accuse someone of corruption and then defend them in court. If the court's decision doesn't go their way, they quickly criticise the courts inside the court as well as through media.

Duplicity within our legal system undermines public trust and respect, eroding confidence in its fairness and integrity. Transparency and ethical conduct are crucial to restoring faith.

UNDERHAND TACTICS AND FALSE INFORMATION
Some elements are trying to influence who the judges are in their cases and spread lies on social media to put pressure on the judges to decide in a particular way.

Such actions jeopardize impartiality of our courts, undermining foundation of justice. Upholding integrity and adherence to legal principles is imperative to safeguarding judiciary.

'Concerned' Modi attacks Cong over lawyers' letter

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday said it is a "vintage Congress culture" to browbeat and bully others, remarks that came in reaction to over 600 lawyers writing to the CJI, alleging that a "vested interest group" is trying to put pressure on the judiciary and defame courts. "To browbeat and bully others is vintage Congress culture. 5 decades ago itself they had called for a "committed judiciary" - they shamelessly want commitment from others for their selfish interests but desist from any commitment towards the nation," Modi said on X. "No wonder 140 crore Indians are rejecting them," PM said and tagged a post that carried the letter written by the lawyers. Letter is titled 'Judiciary Under Threat - Safeguarding Judiciary From Political and Professional Pressure'.

LAWYERS REQUEST TOP COURT

More than 600 lawyers request the Supreme Court of India to stand strong and take steps to protect our courts from these attacks. Staying silent or doing nothing could accidentally give more power to those who mean to do harm. This is not the time to maintain dignified silence as such efforts are happening since few years and too frequently.

Chittorgarh: A historic saga of Cong-BJP rivalry unfolds

Abhishek Tiwari
Jaipur

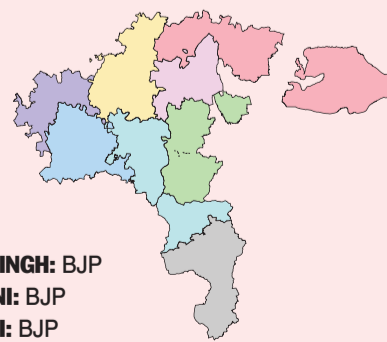

The Chittorgarh Lok Sabha constituency in Rajasthan has been witnessing a fierce political battle between the Congress and the BJP since independence. Notably, this constituency has been represented by prominent figures such as former Union Minister Dr. Girija Vyas and Maharana Mahendra Singh of Udaipur's royal family. The electoral history of this constituency dates back to its inaugural elections, where the Bharatiya Jan Sangh made its mark with Umashankar Trivedi emerging victorious. However, the subsequent elections in 1957 and 1962 saw the seat swinging in favour of the Congress, with Manikyalal Varma elected as the MP. The Congress continued its streak in 1967 with another victory.

In 1971, the Bharatiya Jan Sangh's Vishwanath Jhunjhunwala clinched the seat, followed by the Janata Party's Shyam Sundar Somani in 1977. The seat reverted to Congress in 1980 and 1984, with Nirmala Kumari Shaktawat serving as the MP. The BJP entered the fray in 1989, and Mahendra Singh Mehta won the elections, retaining the seat in 1991 and 1996. Chittorgarh has also been associated with Jaswant Singh, who served as MP in 1991 and 1996, carving a niche for himself in the political landscape. Before Singh's tenure, the Congress had secured victories in three out of six Lok Sabha elections. However, the BJP's Sri Chand Kriplani won in 1999 and 2004.

In 2009, Congress's Girija Vyas reclaimed the seat, only to see the BJP regain control from 2014 onwards. Currently, CP Joshi leads the constituency under the BJP banner.

The Chittorgarh constituency remains significant for its historical and political significance, with each election witnessing intense competition between the Congress and the BJP. As the electoral battle heats up once again, the voters await the outcome, which will shape the political landscape of the region for years to come.

REMEMBERING SWAMI SMARANANANDA MAHARAJ

SALUTING INDIA'S SPIRITUAL LUMINARY

Narendra Modi

The writer is Prime Minister of India

Amidst the hustle and bustle of the grand festival of Lok Sabha elections, the news of the demise of Srmat Swami Smaranananda Ji Maharaj brought my mind to a standstill for a few moments. Srmat Swami Smaranananda Ji Maharaj was a pioneer of India's spiritual consciousness and his demise is like a personal loss. A few years ago, the demise of Swami Atmasthananda Ji and now the departure of Swami Smaranananda Ji on his eternal journey has left many people bereaved. My heart, like that of crores of devotees, saints and followers of Ramakrishna Math and Mission, is deeply saddened.

During my visit to Kolkata earlier this month, I had gone to the hospital to enquire about Swami Smaranananda Ji's health. Just like Swami Atmasthananda Ji, Swami Smaranananda Ji too dedicated his entire life for spreading the ideas of Acharya Ramakrishna Paramahansa, Mata Sharada Devi and Swami Vivekananda across the world. While writing this article, the memories of meetings and conversations with him are getting refreshed in my mind.

In January 2020, during my stay at Belur Math, I meditated in the room of Swami Vivekananda. During that visit, I had a long conversation about Swami Atmasthananda Ji with Swami Smaranananda Ji.

It is widely known that I had a close relationship with Ramakrishna Mission and Belur Math. As a seeker of spirituality, I have met different saints and mahatmas and been to many places over the period of more than five decades. Even in Ramakrishna Math, I got to know about the saints who dedicated their lives to spirituality, among whom personalities like Swami Atmasthananda Ji and Swami Smaranananda Ji were prominent. Their sacred thoughts and knowledge provided contentment to my mind. In the most important period of my life, such saints taught me the true principle of "Jan Seva hi Prabhu Seva".

The lives of Swami Atmasthananda Ji and Swami Smaranananda Ji are an indelible example of the motto of Ramakrishna Mission 'Atmano Mokshaartham Jagaddhitaaya Cha'.

We all are inspired by the work being done by Ramakrishna Mission for the promotion of education and rural development. Ramakrishna Mission is working on India's spiritual enlightenment, educational empowerment and humanitarian service. In 1978, when the disastrous flood struck Bengal, Ramakrishna Mission won the hearts of everyone with its selfless service. I remember, when an earthquake ravaged Kutch in 2001, Swami Atmasthananda Ji was among the first people to call me and offer all possible assistance for disaster management on behalf of the Ramakrishna Mission. Under his direction, Ramakrishna Mission helped many people who were affected by the earthquake.

Over the past years, while holding various positions, Swami Atmasthananda Ji and Swami Smaranananda Ji laid great emphasis on social empowerment. Those who know the lives of these great personalities will definitely remember how serious these saints were towards modern education, skill-

These principles are eternal and will act as our source of strength as we embark on developing a Viksit Bharat during the Amrit Kaal.

Once again, on behalf of the entire nation, I pay homage to such saintly souls. I am confident that all the people associated with the Ramakrishna Mission will further move ahead on the path shown by them.

"I came into politics to raise the voice of the common man, and today I seek your blessings to always continue doing this work, no matter what the cost. The decision comes after it noted on March 25 that the Congress had delayed its legal challenge until the brink of the deadline for assessment completion, hinting at a strategic postponement.

Entire electoral bond controversy may prove to be a flop show!: Dr Chandra

Taking a look back at the recent developments regarding electoral bonds and the Supreme Court's decision on it, Dr Jagdeesh Chandra stresses that although it is not known who or what acted as a catalyst to speed up the hearing on the matter, the outcome is for the greater good of the public. Dr Chandra also explains how political parties tried to create a narrative against BJP for getting the most funds but failed miserably, how the new government will have to come up with a new plan in place of electoral bonds, and how black money could again come back in play. Excerpts... (Part I)

What does it mean when we say that electoral bonds are an inexplicable puzzle?

Dr Jagdeesh Chandra: In his budget speech in the Parliament, late Arun Jaitley had said that till the time electioneering is made independent and neutral, democracy will not work. And it will become independent and neutral only when the funding of political parties is made transparent. Taking this thought forward a law was brought in 2017 and was notified in 2018. At that time, a few individuals had told Jaitley that secrecy should be maintained in it. They feared that if someday the government went out of power, then what would happen to their fate since if they funded one party, the other party that came to power might trouble them. Jaitley understood their issues and said their secrecy would be maintained. The payment mode will be cheques, but it will be kept secret. Suddenly a writ was filed and for 4-5 years, nothing was done on it. But then, in October last year hearing was held on that writ and the court reserved its judgement in November and in March this year, the decision was given. So the first puzzle in this issue is that nothing happened on the matter for five years but what happened now all of a sudden that the case moved ahead? Elections are around the corner and you cannot question the Court's resolve since the matter was ongoing for the last few years. So why was it accelerated all of a sudden by the people who were pleading in the matter? This is a puzzle. So the overall gist that came out was that the idea with which this was brought forward, to keep the funding transparent and secret, could not be maintained since the secrecy is no more, with all due regard to the Supreme Court they gave the decision which was correct. But the other aspect was that the secrecy was no more and that might have several ramifications in future therefore the electoral bonds are an inexplicable puzzle.

It is being said this entire controversy turned out to be a flop show. What is your take on it?

It is not a flop show as yet but could be in the near future because the court's intention is obviously good and now the details are before the public. So there is no controversy as far as these two aspects are concerned, nor is there any issue of a review. When the numbers of the electoral bond scheme were announced, a bid was initiated to create a perception among the people that BJP is the only beneficiary and the party took money from the companies that were in controversies and the propaganda was started as if BJP's election fund has been unearthed. However, they forgot that it was the entire nation's election fund that is the fund that all the parties had, which came to light since fifteen political parties benefited from electoral bonds. So they were not successful in creating the perception and putting the BJP in grey. So now what has happened is that all political parties are feeling guilty since they were unsuccessful and could not create a perception against the BJP. Perhaps this is why Amit Shah had said in Parliament that his silence is better otherwise it will create disturbances for other political parties and that is what happened. Additionally, several political parties have received more money than the BJP and now each of them would want to bury this issue and that is why people have termed it to be a flop show.

Now that this arrangement has been termed unconstitutional, what other choices are the parties left with?

See, the biggest thing is that there should be a consensus on whatever is to be done. Former Chief Election Commissioner of India Sunil Arora recently said in a live discussion on electoral bonds that the Supreme Court did not show any way out. But the SC is there to interpret and review and this work is of the executive and it should come out with a new plan which then they can forward to the Supreme Court. So consensus and transparency are two things that are required and if there is no consensus, then the old idea of state funding could be pursued where in the government gives money to political parties. So a consensus is important and the new government should bring that for the next elections.

Do you agree that use of black money in election funding will gain momentum now?

That is a natural process. Amit Shah had asked everyone how they used to get election funds. It was in cash as everyone knows. Demonitisation was brought to bring an end to the black money circulating everywhere and it was after this move, that digital transactions and transactions through cheques, increased. Now suppose today I want to give one lakh rupees as an election fund donation to any political party, what option do I have? The electoral bond scheme has been termed illegal. So now donations would have to be made in cash. That is why it was said that we are soon entering the cash era if we do not bring an effective solution to this conundrum.

Supreme Court has said that citizens have a right to know about funds of political parties. Do you think people are eager to know about it?

See, SC's view is crystal clear in this aspect i.e. the voter has a right to know who gave which political party how much money and what benefit was derived out of it. The counter view of the government is that people do not have a right to know about their funds, which the Supreme Court overruled and later the government also accepted SC's decision. As far as people being eager to know about it is concerned, obviously, people would be, but not to a great extent. People in general are least concerned whether Adani, Reliance or some other companies have given money to a certain political party. In fact, there was a survey done a few years back which gave shocking results and it came to light that about twelve per cent of voters took money to cast a vote.

Few people believe SC moved way past what the applicants had demanded through their application on the issue. Do you agree?

Oh, that is very interesting. It may be in the larger interest of justice done by the Supreme Court. The application was to make the scheme unquestionable but SC went one step ahead and realised that even the people must be curious to learn about which party has received how much in electoral bond funds and then this decision was given. So the applicant must have been extremely happy because his application sought something but the SC gave more than what he had asked for.

Lok Sabha election process has started and some people are questioning the timing of this decision. What is your take on it?

See, the SC and its benches have a very high degree of credibility, dignity, and integrity and it is absolutely non-political. When we read about CJJ, we can observe that he is absolutely non-political and is a dignified person. So you can't level any hidden motive or agenda charge on the bench that heard this matter. But what happens is that sometimes people indulge in loose talk and believe that there is some judicial activism going on. The reason for this was because some decisions caused inconvenience to the government. Take, for instance, the case of the Chandigarh Mayor or the protection of press freedom, where the Supreme Court rightfully questioned how democracy could thrive otherwise. So, you may cite timing but see this is a democracy and you can't stop people from saying what they want and even if people may be saying it, I don't buy this theory. The law follows a process which goes on and does not get bothered with who says what.

Why is it that the political parties and companies donating money to these parties are shying from giving details?

They are shying because they have realised that this would open a Pandora's box so the political parties said what has come in public knowledge is alright and now no information is to be given. As far as corporates and industrialists not willing to share the information is concerned, is because they realised that they might get stuck in some litigation somewhere and they brought Mukul Rohatgi, I think, to present their case in SC, but the SC refused to hear. So now both parties would want the matter should die down and come to an end.

City Palace is a group of magnificent palaces on the banks of Lake Pichola which is telling the story of the Rajput dynasty of Mewar. Udaipur was founded by Maharana Udai Singh II in 1553 AD and this magnificent palace was built by Maharana Udai Singh II in 1559. City Palace is a great example of architecture. Although Lake Pichola fascinates from every angle, the most prominent ghat of Lake Pichola is Gangaur Ghat. The fragrance of culture and heritage can be felt at this ghat. This ghat adds to the beauty of the brimming Pichola Lake.

Due to the art culture and folk tradition of Udaipur, tourists are drawn here from far and wide, the old streets of the city look like an artist's canvas. Colourful costumes, majestic camel rides, ancient folk traditions and rich handicrafts are the hallmarks of this place. Hathipol market is the most favourite place for tourists to see and buy all this. I have also bought some souvenirs from here.

It is not possible to talk about Udaipur and not mention Saheli's garden. As the name suggests, Saheliyon Ki Bari was built by the ruler of Mewar, Maharana Sangram Singh II, for the women of the royal family. This entire complex is decorated with very beautiful gardens and different types of flowers.

Talking about religious places, it is natural to mention Jagdish Temple, a grand and excellent example of the architecture of Udaipur. Jagdish Temple is a very beautiful, ancient and famous temple of Udaipur. This temple is located near the Royal Palace in Udaipur. This temple is an excellent form of Indo-Aryan architecture. It was built by Maharana Jagat Singh in 1651.

Udaipur is famous not only in the country but also abroad for its rich culture. This white city is also quite popular for Rajasthani folk songs and dance. Tourists from India and abroad enjoy the art and culture here. The best opportunity to see the colours of Udaipur's folk culture is the Mewar Utsav held here every year on the occasion of Gangaur. Along with this, the cultural program held every evening in 'Bagor Ki Haveli', the largest mansion of Mewar on the banks of Pichola Lake in Lake City, is very famous among the tourists, which was built by Amarchand Barwa, the Prime Minister of the princely state of Mewar. Tourists are attracted every day to this gathering decorated with folk artists in Haveli Chowk. If you also go to Udaipur, then do not miss this program of Bagor Ki Haveli.

Shilpgram of Udaipur is also famous for lakes and palaces, as soon as you come here, the smell of folk culture takes you to the rural world, the world-famous Shilpgram Mahotsav is organized here every year. This festival, held in December, remains the centre of attraction for tourists. In this 10-day festival, famous folk artists from all over the country showcase their art. This place is also unmatched for purchasing unique examples of handicrafts. I was lucky that I got a chance to be a part of this event.

Udaipur becomes even more beautiful in the evening. The lights falling on the lake at night fill the atmosphere with romanticism. The best spot to enjoy the evening and night in Udaipur is Sukhadia Circle. Apart from sightseeing, the Chowpatty here is also a favourite place for tourists; in the evening, the Chowpatty becomes buzzing with food lovers. It is very difficult, to sum up the beauty of Udaipur in a few words, yet my effort is to tell you everything about Udaipur sitting at home so that after seeing and hearing you go out on a tour, this is all for now, see you in the next presentation, some of Udaipur and its surroundings. And with historical and beautiful places.

Hollywood Thriller

Christine Quinn

Christine Quinn, known for her captivating performances on the big screen, has found herself at the centre of a real-life drama that's straight out of a Hollywood thriller. The former Netflix star recently made headlines after filing a restraining order against her husband, Christian Richard, following a terrifying episode of domestic violence.

According to court documents obtained by Page Six, Quinn alleges that the altercation ensued when she confronted Richard about his lack of financial contribution and effort in their relationship. Things quickly escalated as Richard unleashed a barrage of violence, hurling floral arrangements, cans of Red Bull, and even dog faeces at Quinn.

In a shocking turn of events, Quinn describes how Richard resorted to urinating on the floor amidst the chaos, leaving her fearing for her safety. Despite the harrowing ordeal lasting for approximately half an hour, Quinn bravely documented the incident on video, ultimately prompting Richard to leave the room.

While the actress from "The Perfect Match" admits to feeling terrified, she displayed remarkable resilience by locking Richard out and ensuring the safety of herself and her son. The police intervened the following day, leading to Richard's arrest.

As the saga unfolds, fans are left stunned by the real-life drama unfolding behind the scenes of Quinn's glamorous life. With her unwavering courage and determination to seek justice, Quinn proves that she's not just a silver-screen sensation but also a fearless survivor in the face of adversity.

Cardi B's Truce Declaration

Cardi B, the undisputed queen of rap and drama, is making headlines yet again with her bold declaration to end online beef and opt for face-to-face showdowns instead. Known for her fiery personality and epic clapbacks, Cardi B's announcement signals a shift in her approach to handling conflicts in the music industry.

In a recent interview, the "WAP" singer left fans shaken as she proclaimed, "I'm done with bitch-es. I'm done with the arguing." Sporting short nails as a symbol of readiness for a physical altercation, Cardi B emphasized her desire to settle disputes in person rather than through social media or diss tracks.

This move comes as no surprise to fans who have witnessed Cardi's ongoing feud with fellow artists like Nicki Minaj and BIA. From trading shots over music samples to dropping subtle jabs in freestyles, Cardi B has never been one to shy away from confrontation.

Speaking of her infamous spat with Nicki Minaj, Cardi B opened up about the altercation, revealing the underlying tensions that led to their public showdown. Despite attempts to resolve their issues, Cardi's dedication to motherhood and her daughter's well-being took precedence over any potential tour earnings.

With two children and a rollercoaster relationship with rapper Offset, Cardi B continues to captivate audiences both on and off the stage.
